

WHARTON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE AMBASSADORS

What are Ambassadors?

Ambassadors serve as goodwill representatives of the Wharton Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture. Ambassadors will always be in the public eye. They make new contacts at Chamber functions by meeting, greeting and introducing themselves and their businesses.

Being an ambassador presents a great opportunity to gain new business exposure as Ambassadors meet and greet Chamber members and get their business name out to Chamber members.

Who are ambassadors?

Individuals who exhibit the highest degree of professionalism and embrace an attitude that is positive, supportive and respectful to all people that furthers the success of our business community and Chamber.

What are the benefits of being an Ambassador?

- New business contacts in the Wharton area.
- Recognition as an Ambassador on the Chamber website.
- Visibility to you and your business at Chamber and other functions.
- Recognition of the "Ambassador of the Year" chosen at the Annual Chamber Banquet.
- Pride through community involvement and service.

How do ambassadors help the Chamber?

Ambassadors help assimilate new members into the Chamber's programs and services by meeting and greeting new and prospective members at Chamber events.

Ambassadors build member commitment and raise awareness of the Chamber's activities and benefits of membership.

Ambassadors help recruit new members to the Chamber as well as help retain existing members.

Ambassadors support the general welfare of the Chamber and promote a positive business climate for the Wharton area. The Ambassadors are instrumental in establishing networking events that are fun and well attended.
